Job description:

As a Senior Frontend Developer it will be your designated responsibility to develop and improve the Usability and User Experience for our ProductsUp platform. You will also work on creating a state-of-the-art frontend architecture, develop new user-facing features and be able to investigate and incorporate new technologies during your daily work life. In doing so you are supported by millions of product specifications, a strongly scalable server infrastructure and a team of highly talented developers. Most importantly you have room for your individual solution processes.

What you bring to the team:

- Very good programming skills (including OOP concepts) with minimum five years' work experience
- You have experience with large JS code bases and frameworks like React.js, D3.js and relay.js
- You are self-driven, structured and responsible
- You have an eye for UX/UI and aesthetics
- Good understanding of asynchronous request handling, partial page updates, and AJAX
- Knowledge of PHP programming is a big plus
- Motivation to dive into large code bases to find/fix issues
- Daily use of Git
- Excellent English skills, both written and verbal

What we offer you:

- Full-time job with a fair and attractive salary
- Modern workplace in the heart of Berlin
- High level of personal responsibility
- Open communication with a flat hierarchy
- A highly motivated, international and dynamic team
- Friendly coexistence of Linux, Windows and Mac ;)
- Regular team events
- Drinks, fresh fruit & snacks daily
